

DARTINGTON SERVICE DESIGN LAB

CENTRE FOR SOCIAL POLICY

(in collaboration with Making Research Count and the Social Work History Network)

LONDON SEMINAR

Monday October 29th

London: The Anatomy Museum, The King's Building, King's College London, The Strand
6pm-8.30pm

THE ROLE AND VALUE OF REVIEWS, INVESTIGATIONS AND INQUIRIES IN ORDER TO LEARN LESSONS IN THE FIELD OF PUBLIC SERVICES

Contributors:

Androulla Johnstone, formerly CEO Health and Social Care Advisory Service and currently director of Duncan and Johnstone Consultancy,

Professor Jill Manthorpe (Professor of Social Work, King's College, London)

Gillian Downham (CSP Fellow and barrister, mental health tribunal chair) and others involved in reviews.

The meeting room is the Anatomy Museum in the King's Building, King's College London, Strand Campus, The Strand, London, WC2R 2LS (nearest stations are Temple, Holborn, Charing Cross, (Waterloo just across the bridge)).

A map can be found at: <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/visit/location.aspx?id=89073256-96fd-4a1c-8a1b-3973fd4bf1dd>

Admission is free but please inform Brian Warren or Ella Baillie at the Dartington Service Design Lab if you wish to come as the security staff at King's will require your name beforehand.

cspevents@dartington.org.uk

01803-762400